1. What is your general research question?

Which is the province with the highest level of Catalan grammar?

2. Why do you think this question is interesting? What does an answer to it tell us?

I think it is interesting to consider the following hypothesis: the amount of input in Catalan received (television, newspapers, posters, restaurant menus...) affects grammar knowledge of the language in question.

3. What is your specific research question?

The average score of a grammar quiz knowing the location, gender and age of the participant.

4. What kind of data would you use to address Question 2 if you had unlimited resources?

I would send a questionnaire to all secondary schools in Catalonia (from 1st to 4th ESO) and compare the results to see if there is any variation between them, taking the provinces into account.

5. What kind of data are you planning to use to address Question 2 within the scope of this class?

Sample of results classified by locality, sex and age.

- How will you obtain it?

With a grammar quiz, which will be passed on to friends and contacts of friends.

- How much will you collect?

100 answers.

- Do you think that is enough data to address Question 2? Why (not)?

No, I would need at least 100 answers per province to make it fair.
